AMEN, AMEN I agree with Tim and Brian. Let's lay it all on them. This is our one and only shot. Let's not hold back.

Will somebody PLEASE stop the maddness!!! When is it goin' to end? I'm experiencing night sweats just thinking about it (not really, but I thought I would add that). I'm not sure where the others stand on this, but I hope we are all in agreements that our report needs to reflect every aspect of our findings (we can't cut this short). If he thinks they've been making forward progress with the first 27 recommends, somebody better tell the troops (cause they should aren't reporting that to me). I'm assuming anything less than the equivalent of a Gone with the Wind sized document isn't couldn't cause these folks to blink an eye. Hell I thought I knew a lil' bit about southern culture...this is over the top. Anxiously awaiting your responses...as I head northwest to the land of Canada.

As far as the Mayor's statement is concerned, I loved it. I think he publicly put both feet in his mouth along with a hand and maybe both of them too. He publicly committed to put ALL our recommendations into effect. I hope he has a great deal of money. I am excited because we can go all out and make our concepts and recommendations happen. How cool is that? We can hold him to it all by just playing this tape to him when he starts balking. "Everyone will go to Charleston to see how it is to be done." Well it is time for him to put up or shut up. We, however must make sure that all our recommendations and the eventual strategic plan are as flawless as possible for we too, as you know, are being watched. I am for slow but deliberate and direct overseeing of all of implementation with an absolute succession planning idea in mind so that when we leave they have people that will continue in the true nature of our philosophy and move Charleston into modern times.

P.S. Please have someone proof read our recommendations before submitting them. They need to be checked for grammar, spelling and punctuation. The English teacher in me. I am too close to all to do it properly.

Stay safe,
Mike

With the OSHA findings and our complete report the mayor has no logical choice and must take action and remove the chief. I too am sweating the release of our report. I am ready to edit for corrections as we as a task force have noted and hand it over sooner than later! The pressure is mounting to the boiling point and anything less will send the troops over the top and destroy our creditability. Lets roll . . .
